Q RULES.

- We take the calls for the order of arrival. Who gets in last takes the call first.
 - Longest call on hold goes first
- If you get a first caller, the call drops, and there's no info on the system, you need to call back. (Ghost calls apply statement)
- Outbounds only count as a valid turn if you get a case; otherwise, it will be your turn until you do take a case.
- Your turn only passes if you take a call properly (Anytype)
- Need to move? Place on the WS group, BRB (Be right back) just for 5 min, no more, as well BRB cannot be taken right before your turn, otherwise, it will be considered as call avoidance.
 - If you get a call that drops and comes back within 5 minutes, it's mandatory for you to take it, unless there's a situation with the client, like he does not want to talk to you.
 - It is prohibited to skip your turn if we are not B2B will consider call avoidance.
- Transfers to the front desk (FD) are only available during permitted hours, 9 am to 6 pm Pacific time.

Not complying with these rules will lead to disciplinary actions.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

When client ask to speak to the lawyer directly?

No, try to help the client and explain to them how we work to be able to perform the intake as explained, if the client is having an attitude, after getting confirmation via the WS group (Dreamteam) can transfer to the FD.

When the client asks, Are you a lawyer, paralegal, or law assistant?

no, but I can help, as I mentioned before, I'm not a lawyer, but I will assist you in sending your information to get you a specific type of lawyer for your case.

When the client asks, Theres anyone that I can speak to now?

Yes me, I will assist you in sending the info they need to see if they can help you or not.

What type of cases do we work with?

All types of cases all around the US, but after the intake, they (the Lawyer or case manager) have the final answer if we can help them or not.

You don't know what the client situation is about?

Ask the WS group, or if it's a known situation according to them, Google it to learn more.
